To: The Commission

PETITION FOR RECONSIDERATION

1. Chadmoore Wireless Group, Inc. ("Chadmoore") pursuant to Section 1.106(a)(1) of the Commission's rules, respectfully submits this Petition for Reconsideration of the Commission's Remand Order in the above referenced proceeding.¹ Specifically, Chadmoore submits that the Commission erred when it failed to afford relief to all incumbent wide-area licensees in the 800 MHz Specialized Mobile Radio ("SMR") service ("incumbent wide-area licensees") who were within their construction period at the time of the release of the *800 MHz SMR Report and Order*² (i.e., December 15, 1995) by imposing construction requirements similar to those imposed on Economic Area ("EA") licensees in the 800 MHz band ("interim coverage requirements").³ The Commission's decision to afford relief only to incumbent wide-area licensees that were still within their construction period at the time of the *Fresno Decision*⁴ directly contradicts Section 332(c),⁵ is not supported by the Fresno Decision, does not pass scrutiny under Chevron,⁶ and is arbitrary and capricious,⁷ and therefore must be reconsidered.

² Amendment of Part 90 of the Commission's Rules to Facilitate Future Development of SMR Systems in the 800 MHz Frequency Band, Implementation of Sections 3(n) and 322 of the Communications Act - Regulatory Treatment of Mobile Services, Implementation of Section 309(j) of the communications Act - Competitive Bidding, First Report and Order, Eighth Report and Order and Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, 11 FCC Rcd 1463 (Dec. 15, 1995) ("800 MHz SMR Report and Order").

2. The Court of Appeals specifically stated that because the Commission failed to consider whether incumbent wide-area licensees are sufficiently different from EA, cellular and PCS licensees that disparate regulatory treatment is warranted under Section 332 of the Act, its refusal to extend the interim coverage requirements to incumbent wide-area licensees was arbitrary and capricious.⁸ While the Remand Order recognizes that incumbent wide-area licensees are not sufficiently different from other CMRS operators to warrant differing regulatory treatment, the FCC, Public Notice* in PR Docket No. 93-144 (filed July 12, 1999 and July 30, 1999).

Commission still has not treated all incumbents similarly. To treat them similarly, it must afford relief to all incumbent wide-area licensees that were within their construction periods on December 15, 1995, the date on which the 800 MHz SMR Report and Order was released, not February 5, 1999.

Background

3. Prior to the release of the 800 MHz SMR Report and Order, Chadmoore entered into management and option agreements with the Roberts Group,⁹ which provided Chadmoore with the duty to manage and, once the licenses were constructed, an option to purchase, licenses for a total of some 5,554 trunked SMR channels across the United States. The Roberts Group proposed to construct an integrated nationwide SMR system, providing coverage to 200 cities in 46 states as well as Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. In 1995, the Roberts Group filed a joint request for an Extended Implementation Authority ("EIA") requesting an additional five years to construct these facilities ("Request"). On March 3, 1995, following the Commission's public interest review of the Request, the Roberts Group was granted an EIA pursuant to Section 90.629, affording the group until March 3, 2000, to complete construction of its planned wide-area system. Under the terms of the EIA, the Robert's Group's first construction benchmarks did not have to be met until December 31, 1996.

⁹ The Roberts Licensees include Harrowby TV, Inc., USITV, Inc., MTI, U.S., Inc., MTI TV, Inc., Ooh Baby! Productions, Inc., Ashcroft ITV, Inc., Italia, Inc., O'Neil TV, Inc., HGTV, Inc., SGTV, Inc., RMTV, Inc., JMTV, Inc., Joan Moore, Inc., Elizabeth Martone, Inc., Bill Roberts, Inc., Mary Francis Martone, Inc., Shelly Curttright, Inc., Maureen Widing, Inc., Dru Jenkinson, Inc., Joseph Marton, Inc., Jana Green, Inc., Kathy Recos, Inc., Jeff Roberts, Inc., Patricia Fleming, Inc., Tad Dobbs, Inc., Wes Dalton, Inc., Steve Dowdy, Inc., David X. Crossed, Inc., Scott Mayer, Inc., Hunter ITV, Inc., Tenth Street TV, Inc., BBTV, Inc., JBTV, Inc., and Lynn Adams, Inc. ("Roberts Group").

4. However, less than one year after the Roberts Group was awarded its EIA, and a full year before the Roberts Group's first construction benchmark, the Commission changed its rules and required licensees with an EIA to rejustify the need for the EIA.¹⁰ A total of 37 licensees, including the Roberts Group, filed rejustification showings. Of these 37 licensees, the Commission found that 27 had justified an additional two year construction period, or the remainder of their EIA, whichever was shorter, to complete construction.¹¹ The Commission found that only two of the remaining 10 licensees had justified continuation of an EIA, because only two had begun constructing their systems. The Roberts Group was not one of the two that had begun construction because it had not yet completed the preliminary work necessary to begin construction (e.g., site preparation, negotiating tower leases, and obtaining equipment), nor had it reached the first construction benchmark established under its EIA and thus had reason to believe it was not required to do so. Nevertheless, the Roberts Group and the remaining licensees were given only six months to complete construction or face automatic cancellation of their licenses.¹² The Roberts Group, in cooperation with Chadmoore, its system manager, constructed what it could in the shortened six month construction period;¹³ the remaining unconstructed licenses were automatically cancelled.¹⁴

The Commission's Disparate Treatment of Incumbent Wide-Area, EA, Cellular, and PCS Licensees Is Not Justified in Light of Section 332(c) of the Act.

5. As outlined by the Commission in its Remand Order, the Court of Appeals found the Commission did not adequately explain "why incumbent wide-area SMR licensees were not allowed to apply the same coverage requirements as EA licensees, cellular licensees, or PCS licensees, given the fact that they are substantially similar CMRS providers . . ."¹⁵ and therefore, the FCC's refusal to extend the interim coverage requirements to incumbent wide-area licensees was arbitrary and capricious.¹⁶ The court also found "the Commission had not fully considered whether incumbent wide-area licensees are sufficiently different from 800 MHz EA licensees, cellular licensees and PCS licensees to justify the different requirements . . ."¹⁷

6. After reviewing the comments and reply comments, the Commission concluded that "SMR licensees granted extended implementation authority are sufficiently similar to EA licensees that they should have similar flexibility with respect to construction requirements . . . [and] incumbent wide-area SMR licensees such as Southern do provide service that is similar, if not identical, to that provided by EA licensees and other CMRS providers."¹⁸ But after finding that incumbent wide-area licensees that were granted EIAs provide services that are identical to the services provided by EA and other CMRS licensees, the Commission turned around and did not provide all incumbent wide-area licensees who were granted EIAs with similar relief. Although the Roberts Group consisted of incumbent wide-area licensees granted EIAs, the Commission refused to afford these licensees the same relief afforded to other incumbent wide-area licensees and other CMRS operators.

¹² WTB Order at ¶ 12. Upon cancellation of an incumbent wide-area license, the spectrum was re-assigned to the EA Licensee operating in that particular EA.

7. The Commission violated the Act in 1995 when it failed to impose the same regulatory treatment (i.e., interim coverage requirements) on all CMRS licensees as mandated by Section 332(c) of the Act. The Commission's Remand Order once again contradicts Section 332(c) because it does not apply the same regulatory scheme on all incumbent wide-area licensees granted EIAs.

The Commission's Decision to Afford Relief Only to Those Licensees Within Their Construction Periods on February 5, 1999
Does Not Pass Scrutiny Under Chevron and Is Arbitrary and Capricious.

8. The Commission has not adequately explained why it has distinguished between incumbent wide-area licensees who were within their construction periods on February 5, 1999 and those who were not, particularly since this distinction is not set out in Section 332(c) or the Fresno Decision. The Commission cannot, once again, impose inconsistent regulatory schemes

on CMRS operators that provide service "similar, if not identical, to that provided by EA licensees and other CMRS providers."¹⁹

9. The Commission's justification for treating incumbent wide-area licensees differently does not pass scrutiny under the Chevron test because Congress addressed the "precise questions at issue" here.²⁰ Specifically, Section 332(c) required the Commission to "promulgate technical requirements that are comparable to the technical requirements that apply to licensees that are providers of substantially similar [commercial] services."²¹ The Commission has agreed that it should have imposed the same technical requirements on incumbent wide-area licensees that it imposed on other CMRS licensees. However, rather than fully remedy this inconsistency, the Commission chose an arbitrary date from which it will determine which incumbent wide-area licensees are eligible for relief, and is once again treating providers of similar commercial services differently in violation of Section 332(c) and established Commission precedent.²²

10. The Commission has acknowledged that incumbent wide-area licensees provide services identical to those of EA, Cellular and PCS licensees and therefore were improperly denied interim coverage requirements in 1995.²³ "The proper inquiry under the arbitrary and capricious standard is 'whether a reasonable person, considering the matter on the agency's table, could arrive at the judgment the agency made."²⁴ A reasonable person, considering the issues could only find that all incumbent wide-area licensees within their construction periods on December 15, 1995 are entitled to relief. But for the FCC's failure to apply interim coverage requirements on the Roberts Group licenses in 1995, the Roberts Group, in cooperation with Chadmoore, would have successfully constructed all of its systems and would be providing valuable dispatch services to many communities across the country, services for which there is now an unmet, pent-up demand.

²² See, Melody Music, Inc. v. Federal Communications Commission, 345 F.2d 730 (D.C. Cir. 1965) (Commission's failure to explain its different treatment of similarly-situated parties was an error.)

11. If the Commission's theory for distinguishing between incumbent wide-area licensees who were within their construction periods on February 5, 1999 and those who were not is based on the diligence with which these entities constructed their facilities, the Commission's justification is still arbitrary. Although it was given only six months to complete construction of its licenses, the Roberts Group and Chadmoore were still able to buildout 3,083 channels.²⁵ Considering all that is involved in such an extensive buildout, the Roberts Group and Chadmoore have demonstrated diligence in constructing that is beyond reproach. It would be arbitrary and capricious for the Commission to say that the Roberts Group was less diligent in constructing its licenses than others who were within their buildout periods on February 5, 1999.

²⁴ N.Y. State Comm'n on Cable Television v. FCC, 749 F.2d 804, 813 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (quoting World Communications, Inc. v. FCC, 735 F.2d 1465 (D.C. Cir. 1984)).

²⁵ See attached Exhibit A.

The Commission Must Remedy Its Inconsistent Treatment of CMRS Licensees
By Reinstating Those Licenses Improperly Cancelled.

12. The Commission's justification for not correcting the error it made in 1995 by reinstating licenses that were improperly cancelled is unfounded. The Commission states that it does not believe reinstating these licenses would be in the public interest because EA licensees in the upper 200 channels relied on these cancellations when they obtained their licenses at auction, and some of these EA licensees have already constructed and begun operating on those frequencies.²⁶ The Commission also states that reinstatement of these licenses would cause uncertainty for potential EA licensees in the lower 230 channels because they would have to wait several years for reinstated licensees to meet their buildout requirements. These justifications are without merit.

13. The participants in the 800 MHz SMR upper band spectrum auction were put on notice that there were outstanding issues pending before the Commission that could have an impact on spectrum availability for EA licensees.²⁷ Although the Commission listed those pending matters of which it was aware, the Commission specifically stated that it made "no representations or guarantees that the listed matters [were] the only pending matters that could affect spectrum availability in the 800 MHz upper band."²⁸ It is reasonable that these participants reduced the amount of their bids accordingly.²⁹ To the extent EA Licensees have constructed their facilities and are providing service in these bands, they have done so with the knowledge that there were outstanding issues with regard to spectrum in the 800 MHz band and that these issues could affect the spectrum they won.

Conclusion

14. In light of the foregoing, it is respectfully requested that the Commission reconsider the Remand Order, reinstate those licenses that were cancelled because construction was not completed within the time specified in the 800 MHz SMR Report and Order and afford all incumbent wide-area SMR licensees that were within their construction periods on December 15, 1995 additional time to construct their facilities.

²⁹ To the extent the Commission can reasonably justify that the public interest would not be served by reinstating licenses that were authorized to operate on channels that are now being used by EA Licensees, the Commission is not without authority to correct its error. Cf., Qualcomm Incorporated v. F.C.C., Docket No. 98-1246 (D.C. Cir. July 23, 1999) (in order to remedy the FCC's disparate treatment of similarly situated applicants, the court ordered the FCC to identify and award petitioner a license for suitable substitute replacement spectrum because other licensees were operating on the channels for which petitioner had applied.)
